Join us for an immersive three-day workshop designed to strengthen the working relationship between urban search and rescue (US&R) handlers and their canine partners, both live-find and human remains detection (HRD). Through a series of hands-on exercises, group discussions, and scenario-based activities, participants will explore the fundamental elements that drive effective canine teamwork in high-stakes environments, gaining:

- Practical strategies to deepen your connection with your canine partner.
- Enhanced ability to read and respond to your dog's cues in real-time.
- Tools to maximize performance through purposeful play and engagement.
- Exposure to a variety of elements and operational challenges.
- Personalized feedback and coaching from experienced SDF trainers.

Whether you're new to US&R or a seasoned handler looking to refine your approach, this workshop offers a dynamic environment to grow your skills and elevate your team's effectiveness.
